

PLEASE DON*T PANIC

Brand Identity

Your brand challenges the outdated assumption that mental health must be approached with hushed tones, fragile language, or overly-clinical jargon. Instead, it reimagines mental wellness as something powerful, expressive, and culturally relevant.

This is mental health without the whisper. A modern, human-centric identity that blends boldness with calm, style with sincerity. The brand stands at the intersection of self-expression and self-care, transforming mental wellness from a taboo topic into a design language people are proud to wear, display, and live with.

Design-wise, the brand embraces a minimal yet commanding visual presence.

Target Audience:

Mental health is not a niche. it's a universal human condition that transcends demographics. Your brand doesn't aim for age groups, psychographics, or tribes, it speaks to humanity as a whole.

The products become a subtle symbol of allyship and awareness. They are carried not just for style, but as a quiet declaration that mental health matters. People can signal empathy, solidarity, and openness without needing to say a single word.

From students to CEOs, creators to athletes, the brand meets people where they are and offers a sense of belonging—uniting individuals under a shared message -- you are not alone, and neither is anyone else.

Thought Process:

The brand's visual philosophy follows one guiding principle: stable can be stylish.

The goal was to design a logo and identity that felt grounded, almost meditative, yet instantly recognizable. It avoids chaotic forms or overly expressive marks, maintaining a static composure that calms the eye and steadies the mind.

THOUGHT PROCESS BEHIND THE LOGO

Brand Identity

The logo sticks to the brand identity by retaining the bold and stark elements of the brand. The stable nature of the logo further implies stability and strength. The logos cyclical symmetry allows for visual harmony and the star in the center draws the viewers attention towards the logo.

This is mental health without the whisper. It is created via the starting letters of 'Please Don't Panic' and also includes the iconic star within the type face. Furthermore, the composition reflects ideas such as Yin and Yang as well as the minds eye- all symbols of peace, calm and wisdom.
